Oil market closed at $1.50. Oil and gas lesson at this office. See Hopkins' bargain shoe counter. A few straw hats left at your price at Hopkins. Come in.

Charles Anderson is building a substantial wharf in front of his property on River street. Dr. F. S. Hunter has fronted and sided his property on May street with substantial new walks.

The price on the odds and ends at Hopkins' store is cleaning the counters pretty fast. Best go first. James Bromley has resingled his residence and is making other improvements about the premises.

Ridgway, according to the Advocate, is not only scourged with typhoid fever, but is infested with snakebites. Edinboro Normal offers superior advantages to those preparing to teach. Fall term opens Sept. 13th, John F. Bigler, Prin.

Every gallon of Lawrence paint is tested before it leaves the factory. Ask for card of information at Dr. J. C. Dunn's. The Glasgow Woolen Mills Co., Center street, Oil City is giving two pairs of pants with every suit ordered the balance of this week.

"Connival" would be a better way to spell it when alluding to the average "street carnival" that are now so rampant in this latitude. The greatest gas heater stove ever invented is the radiating stove, both for heating and economy in gas. Sold by H. E. McKinley, Tionesta.

The Monarch Clothing Co., Oil City, has an ad. on the first page of this paper which speaks for itself and will not likely escape notice. They invite you to call that they may prove what they say. It is following is the list of letters lying unopened for in the Tionesta, Pa., post-office for week ending August 17, 1904: Mr. Charis Best, Mr. E. B. Kuhns, one card. D. S. Knox, P. M.

"Protection our proper permanent policy," is the title of the recent speech of Congressman McCleary, of Minnesota, which has just been published by the American Protective Tariff League.

D. W. Clark as artist, and N. G. Cole of Nebraska, and R. M. Herman of Tionesta, last week finished the survey of a road through the dense wilderness from Kellettsville to a point near Seldom Seen, in Jenks township, where it will connect with the public road leading to Marienville. The distance is about nine miles, and although the roughest kind of surveying was encountered Mr. Clark says the road will have practically a level grade the greater portion of the way.

About nine o'clock on last Saturday while Alex. VanHorn, merchant at Frosttown, was in attendance upon the circus that was holding forth in Byromtown, a fire broke out in his warehouse and sleeping apartments and before it could be extinguished had consumed the entire building. By concerted efforts on the part of the populace Mr. VanHorn saved his new store building that is almost finished right next door. Loss is estimated at about $300, with no insurance.—Express.

Maudie writes: "Will you kindly inform an anxious reader as to what a house party is?" Certainly, we are here simply to be as useful as possible. A house party is one that is confined principally to the house rather than to the barn, woodshed or corn crib. Some of them last quicker than others, but most of them hang on longer than the hostess finds it pleasant. As she may have an opportunity, however, of getting even later on, she smiles and says she's having a lovely time.—Venango Spectator.

Lambert Weaver laid three tomatoes on our table this week, the likes of which we have not seen this season. The largest weighed an even pound and the others were not far behind it while all were beauties. Now Charlie don't get all the credit for this fine showing of garden product, for we saw Mrs. Weaver setting out and superintending the care of these tomato vines right from our office window, and Charlie has been in evidence mainly since the fruit began to ripen. But our thanks, just the same.

The story is told of an old bachelor who bought a pair of socks and found attached to one a paper with these words: "I am a young lady of 20 and would like to correspond with a bachelor with a view to matrimony." The name and address were given. The bachelor wrote and in a few days got this reply: "Mama was married 20 years ago. Evidently the merchant whom you bought those socks of did not advise, or he would have sold them long ago. My mother handed me your letter and said possibly I might suit. I am IS."

It is now evident that Roosevelt is going to be badly "licked" in this campaign. We have received from The Coupon Press, Washington Heights, Chicago, a book of 95 stickers like a postage stamp only larger, each being a half tone portrait of the president with the title "Four Years More For Teddy." They look very neat on a letter head or envelope and as the idea is rather novel they will, no doubt, be "licked" by thousands of Roosevelt's admirers. The publishers will send a sample to parties sending ten cents and mention this paper. This is a special offer to our readers.

"There is but one way to boil roast, ing ears," writes Penelope Perkins of the Eli Dorado Republican. "Put on a pot of boiling water and 'break' it with a little soda, 'skim' the water, and put in another vessel in order to get all the lime out of it. Add a teaspoonful of granulated sugar, several pinches of salt, and when the water comes to a boil, put in the roasting ears, cover tightly, and boil furiously till thoroughly heated through—from 15 to 20 minutes—and serve hot. It will be cooked in a way that one can eat three or four ears—my husband can and often does eat six ears and asks for more."

It is said, you know, that our language is the most intricate in the world. You will understand how true this is, if you read the following: "A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper it that in which the sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is that on which the sleeper runs while the sleeper sleeps. Therefore while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper, under the sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps the sleeper and wakes the sleeper in the sleeper, by striking the sleeper on the sleeper, and there is no longer any sleeping in the sleeper on the sleeper."

The fact that 250 dealers in milk in this State have been detected recently using formaldehyde to preserve the fluid is discouraging. Various other poisons were found in use by other dealers. And only a comparatively few dealers undergo this inspection. The punishment inflicted for such a crime is trivial. Hundreds of infants are killed by the fraudulent use of such poisons by dealers in the cities and the larger communities where the people must depend entirely upon the milk dealer for their supply, and many adults are also injured, perhaps permanently. Until more drastic measures to protect the public health are enforced the greedily and conscienceless "dealers" may be expected to continue this work, as it is profitable even when they have to pay fines occasionally.

Mrs. George Steiger, whose home is on the Beaver Valley road, Hickory township, met with an accident in a runaway last Sunday afternoon, and was quite severely hurt. She was returning with her two children from a visit at the home of her father, Samuel Mervin, and in starting down the steep hill leading from his place, a part of the harness gave way allowing the buggy to run against a terrific rate down the hill, at the foot of which the occupants were thrown out. The outer bone of Mrs. Steiger's right leg below the knee was broken, and she was quite badly bruised and shaken up generally, while the children were also considerably bruised, but not severely injured. Dr. Detar of Kellettsville, attended the injured lady, and she was getting along well at last accounts.

Monday, while playing in a hammock suspended from the porch in the rear of her home, Inez, the 10-year-old daughter of G. C. Miller, was thrown out and sustained a fracture of one bone of the left elbow which was also dislocated. Dr. Dunn attended the child and made her as comfortable as possible, but she has suffered severely, the accident being an exceptionally painful one.

Prof. D. W. Morrison, principal of the borough high school, has accepted a request from Congressman Sibley to again act as a member of the examining board in the competitive examination of candidates for the vacant West Point military cadetship, which will be held in Warren a week from to-day, August 24th. The board will be composed of one member from each of the five counties comprising the 28th district. We understand Forest county will have some candidates, and we hope some one of them may win the prize.

As a reminder of early logging days in this vicinity, Rev. B. F. Felt in grading about his premises in this place on Saturday, they were originally occupied by Rev. Hezekiah May, the first Presbyterian minister in all this part of the country, came upon an old-fashioned log stamping axe, bearing the initials, "W. L. G." The oldest inhabitant fails to remember any person or lumber firm whose name would conform to these three letters.—Vindicator. It remained for Mrs. Hulings, widow of the late Judge S. S. Huling, to decipher the initials above referred to, as those of William Lewis Gregory, more than fifty years ago conned of with the firm of Hall & May in the lumber business. Mr. Gregory's son Abram, who came here after his father's death or removal, to settle up his affairs, is remembered by some of our older residents.

Saturday evening shortly after nine o'clock while a severe electrical storm was passing over this section, Robert Walters, of Nebraska, met with a mishap which might have cost him his life, but from which he emerged without so much as a scratch. He was returning to his home in a buggy, and when just below James Landers' barn at the lower end of town, the horse deliberately turned off the road and walked off the embankment, upsetting the buggy and throwing Robert out, but lighting on his feet he held to the reins. This frightened the animal so that it plunged forward and with breakneck speed dashed down a small ravine into the creek, a distance of 50 feet or more from the street. Mr. Walters got the frightened horse unhitched from the vehicle as quickly as possible and started up the bank, the horse following as fast as it could. It would be practically impossible to make the same trip in daylight without killing the horse, and the escape is much in the shape of a miracle. It is supposed the lightning flashes blinded the animal and turned him off the road.

If some of the people who read newspapers and forget to come up with the cash when it is due the publisher, would take a tumble every time their conscience tells them to loosen up with the good there would be more peace of mind and happiness for the man who has contributed his life's earnings towards giving the news, with a little set aside for the necessities of life, as an exchange. A newspaper debt is an honest one and the man who neglects to pay it has no more right to expect a pleasant interview at the end of life with St. Peter than the man who refuses to pay the preacher or the doctor. The real value of a country paper in a community is perhaps never realized to the extent it should be until the publisher has given up the sponge and the remnants of a faithful attempt at doing good has ceased to suffer. Pay for our home paper by all means, even though you may be compelled to dispose of one of your favorite dogs to do it, for the newspaper is a worthy factor in any community and the man who has a hand in putting patches on the editor's trousers is not a fit subject to enter within the pearly gates.

The Unappreciated Obituary Writer.

In his address to the Franklin News correspondents, at Monarch Park, H. M. Irwin, in a reminiscent way, said: "By the way, you reporters will find that the writing of death notices is about the most difficult and thankless of your tasks. Out of thousands of columns I have turned out, on all subjects, probably one-fifth was in the shape of obituaries, some of which was wrought out by brain labor that extended far into the night. Yet out of all the many hundreds of such notices, I can recall but about five instances in which I was even thanked by those of kin to the departed. One, a young lady wrote her thanks and enclosed a $5 bill. Another, a worldly and unregenerated man, laced up his sincere acknowledgments with $10. The other three tendered thanks with sincerity, though not accompanying the same with any of the Cornegie liberal compound." The subject touched on is one about which much might be written. The cases mentioned by Mr. Irwin, in which the appreciation of the relatives of the deceased extend even to their pocketbooks, are probably the only ones on record. In a newspaper experience of something more than a quarter of a century, the writer of these few lines is willing to swear he has never been offered a cent for extolling the good qualities of the dead, though in some cases it required hard work to overcome the conscientious scruples which even obituary writers sometimes encounter, when engaged in the elegantly exaggerated style of writing. It memory serves correctly, no friend of the deceased ever thanked us for writing an obituary, to say nothing about paying for the services rendered in plugging up the columns of but poorly deserved obituary jolly. We have been compensated, on divers and sundry occasions, for stretching the truth about the statesmanship and manliness of the living, but never a cent for the dead. The relatives and the friends of the "dear departed" prefer to invest their money in crepe, with which to advertise their sorrow, the same as judges, orders, associations and the like are profuse with their resolutions of respect, so long as they can get the editor man to write and publish them for nothing. The obituary business around a print shop can with propriety be classed under no other heading than that of "Great Leather."—Oil City Blizzard.

Tionesta friends have been pleased to have a visit from two of her former boys during the past week in the persons of Russell and Arthur Dingman, and they were kept busy shaking hands with former comrades during their stay. They are located in Toronto, Canada, where both have fine positions and are doing well.

Mrs. A. B. Kelly and Mrs. Sula May Sharpe gave a delightful entertainment to the members of the primary department of the Presbyterian Sabbath school, on the beautiful lawn surrounding the Kelly mansion, last Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock. About fifty children were present, who pronounce the royal hospitality the most pleasant they have ever known.

H. F. Connelly, whom we all know best as "Doc," now located at Way, Ohio, where he is nicely situated in the employ of the Standard Oil Co., is paying a visit to old friends in Forest county, being on a two weeks' vacation. He was a pleasant caller at the REPUBLICAN office Monday evening, accompanied by Charles Brant of Fogle Farm. It appears about for anything "Doc" is enjoying perfect health and a good measure of prosperity, all of which his friends hereabouts are pleased to note.

Tionesta friends of Mrs. Anna M.

Adams have received invitations to be present at the wedding reception of her daughter, Miss Mabel, and Mr. Charles R. Ammerman, which happy event takes place on Tuesday evening, August 30th, 1904, from 8 until 10 o'clock, 560 Third Avenue, Detroit, Mich. The bride-to-be is remembered by many Tionesta people as a bright little miss of five or six summers when the family removed from here. The happy couple will be at home to their friends at 142 W. High street, Detroit, after October 1st.

Bert Berlin, for the past three years located near Aberdeen, Wash., returned with his family yesterday, and will again make this his home, living at Whig Hill. They return on account of Mrs. Berlin's health, the climate of Washington not seeming to agree with her.

New Principal at the Clarion State Normal School.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Clarion State Normal School, Tuesday, August 9, 1904, Professor J. George Becht, A. M., of West Chester, Pa., was unanimously elected Principal of the school for the coming year.

Professor Becht is a native of Pennsylvania. He received his education in the schools of this state, being a graduate of Lafayette College in the class of 1890. He spent a summer at Harvard University specializing in Pedagogy. He taught several years in the public schools of this state and was ten years County Superintendent of schools in Lycoming county. He comes here from West Chester Normal School where he has taught with success in the Department of Pedagogy. His recommendations are of the highest character. Mr. Becht is in the full vigor of manhood, thirty eight years of age, thoroughly acquainted with the school system of Pennsylvania, full of enthusiasm and pleasing in manner. We have every reason to believe that he will be a successful executive officer and a competent and popular instructor.

At the same meeting, Miss Minnie Isabel Liggett, of Carlisle, Pa., was chosen principal of the Model School. Miss Liggett is a woman of broad experience in school work. She was educated in Carlisle and is also a graduate in music and drawing of the Thomas Normal Training School, Detroit, Michigan. She taught nine years in the High School at Carlisle, and at present holds a position at Park River, North Dakota. The St. Louis World's Fair Commission for North Dakota, consisting of the highest executive officers of that State appointed Miss Liggett an assistant in the educational department at St. Louis for the month of June. She is well qualified to be an efficient principal of the Model School.

The Glasgow Woolen Mills Co., Center street, Oil City, is giving two pairs of pants with every suit ordered the balance of this week.

A Short Sermon To Particular Men.

There's a Right Way to Do Everything.

The young fellow with his first cigar, finds it out when he swallows the smoke. The man with a lame watch discovers his predicament when he misses a train. If it is true of the trivial circumstances of life, it is equally true of dress. More so, perhaps—for man is judged by the clothes he wears, and as your hat is the most prominent part of your dress, it certainly ought to be right. We've all the New Fall Styles in both Soft and Stiff Hats, and while nothing extremely radical in style, there's enough change so your old hat will look like a "Has Been."
